Africa Climate Change Fund: Fourth Call for Proposals

Introduction

The IPCC Sixth Assessment report estimates that methane – a relatively short lived but potent climate forcer, with high global warming potential – accounts for almost a third of observed warming to date and is a major determinant of near-term global temperature increases. Hence, methane emissions reductions will be critical for limiting global warming. The Global Methane Pledge (GMP), launched at COP26, commits participants to take voluntary actions to reduce global methane emissions by at least 30% from 2020 levels by 2030. More than 25 countries on the continent have joined the GMP and have
